

Case Report

Granuloma faciale : an extra-facial presentation

Mohammad Dehghan (MD) <sup>*1</sup>, Ramin Azarhoush (MD) <sup>2</sup>, Nazila Alborzi (MD) <sup>3</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Assistant Professor, Department of Skin, Gorgan University of Medical Sciences, Gorgan, Iran.

<sup>2</sup> Assistant Professor, Department of Pathology, Gorgan University of Medical Sciences, Gorgan, Iran.

<sup>3</sup> Assistant Professor, Department of Cardiology, Gorgan University of Medical Sciences, Gorgan, Iran.

---

Abstract

Granuloma faciale is an uncommon cutaneous lesion characterized by asymptomatic skin nodules and plaques without any systemic presentation. The lesions mainly seen in middle aged males. We report an uncommon presentation (multiple cutaneous lesions) in trunk, upper arm and face) of a 32 years old male.

Keywords: Granuloma faciale, Extra-facial presentation

---

* Corresponding Author: Mohammad Dehghan (MD), E-mail : modehghan@hotmail.com

Received 14 Nov 2006

Revised 21 Apr 2008

Accepted 22 Jun 2008